Boy Scouts from the Stanhope area salute the Lt. Gov., Pauline McGibbon as she left the Welch Memorial Library in Stanhope township. Mrs.

McGibbon was on hand Saturday to officially open the building which is named after Thomas Welch, a former clerk of the township who died last year.

Crowds line up outside the Welch Memorial Library in Stanhope township to see the building which was officially opened Saturday by Lt. Gov.

Pauline McGibbon. Thomas Welch, who died last year was the clerk of the township for 36 years.

Repairs are needed to Community Centre

Some repairs will be made to the Dysart Community Centre and an engineering report will be done for the provincial government.

Reeve Murray Fearrey, said that there are some minor repairs to be done on the building and there hasn't been an engineering study done yet, although he said he understands that one has to be done soon. Reeve Fearrey pointed out that he is not on the municipalities recreation committee. Don Lloyd, chairman of the recreation committee said he has not heard of the possibilities of some repairs being done on the arena, "although the recreation committee is meeting tonight and I might learn more."

Mr. Lloyd said he didn't know an engineer's study had to be done on the building and pointed out that one was done two years ago at the request of the municipality.

The province has required municipalities to do engineering reports on their arenas and curling clubs to make sure they are up to safety standards for Ontario.

An estimated 300 arenas in Ontario are expected to be closed this year until the repairs are made.

Municipality might buy grader for yearly use

Anson, Hindon and Minden could be buying its own grader for year round use.

The council learned last Wednesday that a grader allocated by the Ministry of Transportation and Communications to Howdon, Lutterworth and Anson, Hindon and Minden would not be available.

A letter from the ministry to the municipality stated, "For many years this Ministry has been able to allocate a grader to the townships for the summer maintenance of gravel roads. This has been possible because this grader and operator could be spared by this ministry."

"Unfortunately, commencing in 1977 we will no longer have a spare grader or operator and will therefore be unable to assist you with the grading of your gravel roads."

The council decided that information on the cost of purchasing a grader for the municipality provide an operator.

The council decided that information on the cost of purchasing a grader for the municipality would be obtained for the next council meeting.

It was noted that the grader could be used year round.

The MTC had suggested three possibilities that the municipality could use including calling tenders for a grader and operator, rent a grader and have one of the three municipalities provide an operator or have one of the municipalities purchase a grader and have a rental agreement with the other two.

The Haliburton Highlands' Chamber of Commerce says that the Central Ontario Travel Association was ill advised to ask municipalities to compile a list of tourist oriented businesses.

In a letter to Richard Parisotto, clerk-administrator of Anson, Hindon and Minden, Bob Stinson secretary manager to the chamber said, "The Central Office was ill advised to approach the municipalities directly for this information and we have assured them that all the information they require is available through our office, and in fact is already on file with them."

The letter noted that all municipalities in the area were asked to compile lists and "we have just been made aware of this fact and are concerned about any undue inconvenience it may have caused."

"We feel that it is the Chamber's duty and responsibility to dispose information of this nature and should you be asked in the future to reply to inquiries along the lines rest assured we would be pleased to handle this for you," Mr. Stinson said.

Bruce Ryan, of Oshawa, reported the theft of a sidewinder boat with a 150 horse power Mercury motor Sept. 3.

Mr. Ryan is the owner of the boat and motor valued at $4,400.

The youngsters were all passengers in the Arscott vehicle. The Ontario Provincial Police, Minden detachment report that the two cars collided at the crest of a hill. Mrs. Arscott has been charged with driving left of centre.

There was $3,000 damage to each vehicle.

The detachment investigated 15 motor vehicle collisions during the week of Aug. 30 to Sept. 5.

A single car accident at 10 p.m. Saturday sent a Bowmanville man to hospital with fractured ribs and cuts.

John Baker, 50, RR 3 Bowmanville has been charged with failed to report a collision and careless driving as a result of the accident.

The detachment reports that the vehicle Baker was driving failed to round a curve and entered into a ditch on Deep Bay Road. There was $2,000 damage to the vehicle.

A single car accident Wednesday resulted in a Haliburton woman receiving cuts and bruises.

Henriette Vanlieshout, 41, RR 1 Haliburton, was injured when the car she was driving slid on wet pavement on Highway 530 late Wednesday morning.

There was $1,500 damage to the vehicle.

Charged with mischief

Olaf Christian Rabe, 20, of Markham has been charged with mischief as the result of an incident at Paradise Lodge Sept. 3.

The Minden detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police report that Rabe had been removed from the hotel after a minor disturbance and three windows were broken.

Inquest

A coroner's inquest into the death of three people who died when a causeway collapsed at Big Hawk Lake May 23 began yesterday at the Minden Community Centre.

The inquest is expected to last for the remainder of this week and continue into next week.

Larry... ended the Kinmount Fair and once again made the annual event a success. This year featured a number of events including a demolition derby and a... test.

Bailey bridge price up

Minden just might not be getting a bailey bridge, if the costs get any higher than the $4,000 or $5,000 Anson, Hindon and Minden council said it would be willing to spend.

The council received word from the Ministry of Transportation and Communications that the bridge could cost $20,000 to $25,000 which would bring the municipal share to the $4,000 range.

A letter from D.A. Glashan assistant to the municipal engineer for D.A.O. White, district engineer, to the municipality, stated, "The engineering decking, cribbing, approach work, any damage and or replacement of parts, transportation of the bailey to and from the site, erection and dismantling, are subsidizable items, the total estimated cost between $20,000 and $25,000."

"In view of this, and based on council's decision to request the bailey, would you please have council prepare and forward to this office, a resolution stating that they are prepared to accept the additional costs of the bailey over and above the estimated $80,000 for the bridge."

Reeve Reg Booth said he warned that the cost of the bailey bridge might get too high for the municipality. Reeve Booth said that if the cost was only 5,000 "we could go for it, but we know government figures." He anticipated that the costs of the bridge could get as high as $10,000.

The council agreed to wait until the tenders are in on the bridge repairs before making a decision on the bailey bridge. The tenders will be opened on Sept. 16 and the contractors will include estimates for the installation of the bailey bridge.

Members of the council admitted that they were under the impression the cost of bailey bridge would not be too high.

125 general occurrences investigated

The Minden detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police investigated 125 general occurrences and 15 motor vehicle accidents from Aug. 30 to Sept. 5.

There were eight break-ins investigated, eight compassionate messages delivered, seven person charged with Liquor Licence Act violations and one person charged with impaired driving.

The detachment cruisers logged 6,474 miles during the week.

Haliburton Highlights

May we remind you of the Nursing Home Weekend at Extencicare, Haliburton of September 18th and 19th.
September 17th - 7:30 p.m. - Hawaii Luau
September 18th - 2:00 - 4:00 p.m. Carnival and Open House
September 19th - 4:30 p.m. Barbeque
Everyone is welcome.

The newly formed Kinsmen Club of Haliburton who have been off on a summer vacation will start to resume their regular meeting this month.

A large number of local citizens were in Kinsmount over the past weekend attending the annual Kinsmount Fair. This is one of the best small town fairs in Ontario and everyone who attended said they had a wonderful time.

Hockey action is with us once again and its Canada Cup time. Many of the local hockey fans tell us that they are really enjoying the series.

The Haliburton Junior Huskies put on a good show in their two exhibition games played at the Haliburton Arena last week. Its a good way to start to get in condition for the upcoming hockey season.

Coming soon is a Christian Enrichment Seminar (E.T.T.A. Courses for Accreditation.) It will be sponsored by the Haliburton County Ministerial Association.

Heavy objects placed on the rear seat or back window shelf of your car become dangerous missiles in the event of a collision or sudden braking, warns the Ontario Safety League. A sudden stop sends these items flying and occupants may be struck a severe blow, or the driver startled into making a false move. Remember, heavy or sharp-edged articles should be placed in the trunk, not the window-ledge or back seat.

We understand that work will soon be underway for the completion of the Drag River Bridge in Haliburton. Work still left to be done is curbing, new sidewalks and paving.

The West Guilford Co-operative Playtime for the Schoolers begins on Thursday, September 16th, 10-11:30 a.m. at the West Guilford Community Centre.

The fourth annual dockside floating boat show will take place Sept. 16-19 adjacent to Ontario Place, Toronto.

This unique display of marine products attracts around 20,000 visitors.

The "rig of the day" calls for deck shoes and blue jeans as skippers and would-be skippers check out boats of all types for the next season.

The show also gives boat-builders an opportunity to exhibit their new product lines, take orders and plan their building program for the winter months.

Too, it gives boat owners a chance to trade up and arrange for the sale of their present boat, and make arrangements for the new purchase.

Show times will be daily from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The Rotary Club of Haliburton are looking over several projects that they hope to get underway in the very near future. One is floodlights at the local tennis courts.

In closing this week may we remind you to drive carefully as school is in.

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

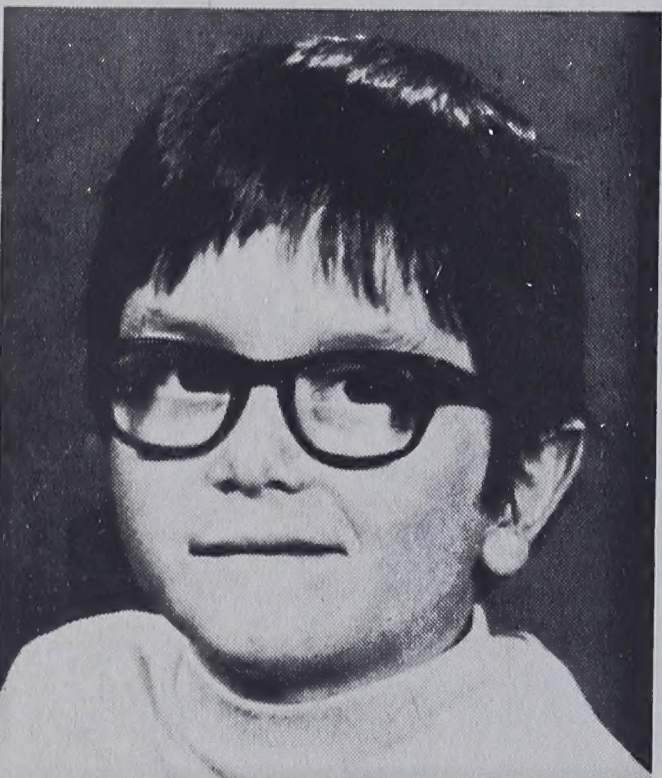

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

Lanny has just turned 8. He's an engaging youngster of Anglo-Saxon descent with dark eyes, brown hair and medium complexion. In good health, he wears glasses for nearsightedness. Lanny is below average in ability but has made great strides in his present foster home. He is attending regular school (Grade 2) but it is expected he will need special education.

Lanny enjoys other children with whom he is generous and cooperative. He is fond of animals. He loves open spaces and thinks camping is the ideal holiday.

A mother and father who will give him much time and attention will find Lanny a warmly responsive son. Older brothers and/or sisters will be an asset, as well. He will do best in a flexible school setting where children get encouragement and stimulation without pressure.

To inquire about adopting Lanny, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2. In your letter tell something of your present family and your way of life.

The folks next door

©The Argyle Syndicate Ltd.

LAST WEEK I mentioned neighbors, and after I'd finished the column, I thought some more about mine.

If you live in a city apartment, you'll probably never know your neighbor two doors down the hall, and will take two years before you are on nodding acquaintance with those next door.

That's fine for some people. They actually like to retreat into their cells, and resent any encroachment on their so-called privacy.

But if you live in a small town, in a house, you have neighbors, for better or worse, and you might as well relax and enjoy it.

Neighbors are not an unmixed blessing. They can be a terrible pain in the arm.

When I was a kid, we spent our summers at a cottage. Next door was an old bat who was the quintessence of a bad neighbor. Everybody else at the lake was part of a big, happy family. Not so this one. She sneered, and snarked and caused endless trouble. Finally, she put up a fence between her property and ours, so we couldn't walk on her lawn, which was nothing but pine needles. We solved this by jumping the fence and walking across her pine needles, while she peered from behind the curtains, calling out curses on the brown, trampled vandals. That was a nuisance, and caused my mother and I some sleepless nights.

But there are many like that. Many neighbors, like yourself, are the kind of people who wish to be treated as equals.

There is one thing about neighbors. They are like relatives. You can't pick and choose. You take what you get. You don't buy a house because of the neighbors, though it might be a good idea to think about it.

I've been lucky all my life, and I've been lucky in my neighbors. In the last town we lived in, they were the salt of the earth. One of them was even decent enough to have his house burn down one night, in a spectacular fire, which I got my kids out of bed to watch. Something they'll never forget.

I don't expect that kind of service from all my neighbors, mind you. That was being neighborly to the point of no return.

But we've been in this house going on 20 years, and I couldn't have done better for neighbors if I'd hand picked them.

One one side lives a carpenter and contractor. For a guy like me, who can't hammer two boards together without making a hand sawdust, it's better than having a fairy godmother. He is the soul of generosity when it comes to lending advice and nails. And when I'm standing looking stupidly at some project that would take me a week, he comes over, does it in eight minutes, and, when offered pay, says: Forget it.

He also has a warm and pleasant wife and a son who has grown into a dandy snow-shoveler and lawn-cutter.

On another side, my neighbor is a sailor. Don't see much of him in the summer, but in the spring, he whistles over the fence and holds out a big newspaperful of fresh smelt or perch filets. Had to cut down one of my oaks the other day that was threatening to fall on his house. It cost me $300. But who in his right mind wouldn't trade mere money for a panful of fried smelt, and the spirit behind them?

Up the street a couple of houses lives Gabe. He is a former plumber, and still has the tools and the skills of his craft. When you have guests arriving, and the sink is plugged, and the regular plumbers are having their four-day weekend, Gabe comes to the rescue. In 10 minutes the sink is slurping water again. And Gabe doesn't want an arm, a leg, and you live.

Across the way lives John, a teacher, a mathematical whiz, and delighter in the solving of problems. For example, My wife is away for a week. I want to do a washing. I can't get the washing machine going. Call John. He whips across the street, through the snow, and in five minutes the washing is thinking away. And when my wife is away, his wife nips across and puts a jar of home-made soup inside my back door.

When we go away for a few days, the neighbors keep an eye on the place, as though it were their own: pick up the newspapers, feed the cat, make sure the doors are locked, cut the grass if it needs it.

Perhaps best of all is the knowledge that they are there, if you need them. A sudden emergency, a minor calamity, and they'll be there to drive you, phone a doctor, bring food, whatever.

This closeness might seem appalling to city folk, with their preoccupation with privacy. But good neighbors don't live in each other's laps. They have their families; we have ours.

We don't encroach on their lives; they don't on ours. They have their friends; we have ours; and they're not necessarily the same.

Poet Robert Frost summed it up, as poets so often do, when he intoned: "Good fences make good neighbors." And he wasn't just talking about fences.

So there you are chaps. Let's see you come up with a fisherman, a carpenter, a plumber, and a trouble-shooter, and I'd say you're as lucky as I am, when it comes to neighbors.

This and that

By Jennifer Woods

I have met so many people who say that they can't make their own bread. I would like to help disprove this idea but I must admit that I do understand their plight. Until last year I had never baked bread successfully. Now I bake all our bread and believe me it is easy! As my column progresses I will be adding more bread recipes as I enjoy this form of cooking very much. The reason I feel this way is because bread is one of our necessities and I don't feel dependant upon large companies to provide my basic food. The satisfaction in this is twofold, I know what is in the bread I make and I know it tastes great!

Everyone has the ability to bake bread. All you have to know is how to care for the yeast. This of course is the most important ingredient. When growing the yeast for breadmaking the room or area you are working in should be comfortably warm without drafts. Yeast needs warmth to nurture. Also yeast growth can be terminated by too much heat. Where there is not enough heat its action is sluggish; when there is too much the yeast dies. The temperature of the yeast should be approx. 98F. The bowl you use should be warm and the ingredients should be at room temperature. I use the granular type of yeast and I use one level tablespoon per loaf. To grow the yeast needs to be fed, so I feed one level teaspoon of sugar to that amount of yeast using 1/2c. warm water. I also cover the dish that the yeast is growing in so as not to lose heat. If you look after the yeast you will be rewarded with beautiful bread.

Basic White Bread (2 loaves)

- 2 tablespoons yeast
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- 3/4 cup warm water (98F.)
- 2 cups scalded milk
- 2 tablespoons melted butter
- 2 tsp. salt
- 2 tablespoons white sugar
- 7 - 8 cups all purpose flour (approx.)

Step 1 Start the growth of your yeast. Pour scalded cooled milk into a large warmed bowl and add melted butter, salt and sugar and blend well. Add the yeast mixture and mix by hand. You will be able to smell that gorgeous "bread smell" already.

Step 2 Stir in the flour one cup at a time until the dough is quite stiff. As I stated before you may need more flour so don't worry if you have to use more to make the dough stiff.

Step 3 Measure out about half a cup of flour on the kneading board and turn the dough onto the board. Knead the dough.

Step 4 With floured hands fold the dough towards you with your fingers and push firmly away with the heel of your hand. Add more flour to the board as it is kneaded until the dough no longer sticks.

Step 5 The kneading is finished when the non-sticky dough is smooth and satiny. Do not overwork the dough. It is very important that the dough remain warm. Put the dough in a greased bowl, cover the bowl with a clean cloth and set in a warm place to rise. Remember not too hot.

Step 6 Let the dough rise until almost double (about 1 1/2 hours) Test the dough by inserting two fingers about 1/2 inch into the risen dough - if the indentations remain the dough is ready to shape.

Step 7 Punch dough down, squeeze out the air bubbles with your hands and shape into a smooth ball and divide the ball into two portions.

Step 8 Shape the portions into two ovals and pinch a seam down the centre of each loaf to seal. During this step you can make one of the loaves into rolls.

Step 9 Put the shaped loaves in greased pans seams down. Cover and let rise in a warm place until almost double (about 45 min.) Put into a 375 F. oven and bake for approximately 1/2 hour.

Step 10 To test the cooked loaves, turn them over and knock on the bottom of the loaf. It should have a hollow sound if it is ready. Allow the bread to cool on a rack so the loaf can breathe.

The best of luck with your bread making, I hope you find great satisfaction in it. Have a slice for me and "good eating" to you and your family.

Council has been performing quite well for Dysart et al

This is an election year and looking back we find that the council of the Municipality of Dysart et al have done a good job. We must admit that there is a few areas in which they might have been a little slow in taking action. One of the complaints heard recently is the fact that the weeds have been let go in the village of Haliburton to the point that on some sidewalks they are growing right across the cement. We can't understand with the amount of men in the employee of the municipality why these weeds cannot be cut and brought under control. We hope that some action on this matter will take place in the very near future.

During the past two years we wish to commend the council on the great way that they have kept the roads and sidewalks clear of snow during the winter months and on the wonderful way they have kept the roads in good condition during the summer months.

A progressive move by the local council during the past year was in renovating the town hall and building a new fire hall for the firemen. The newly renovated Town Hall is now a great asset and now the older folk have the opportunity of getting into the offices on the ground level which is a good thing. The firemen were in bad need of more room and now they have it in their modern new facilities.

One thing that we are looking forward to is the start of the second phase of the sanitary sewage system for Haliburton. We understand that it won't be too much longer before tenders will be called. This is a must and we are looking forward to the day when this project will be completed. In our opinion it won't be too much longer before we will have to start thinking of central water supply for the village.

Hockey Haven a plus for the area

The Haliburton Hockey Haven has closed up shop for another season. It was a very successful season for the men who operate this camp as hundreds of boys from around the world came to Haliburton to get tips on hockey from professionals. It's really surprising to find out just how far some of these boys come to attend the hockey Haven.

The Haliburton Hockey Haven is just not another boys camp, it's a camp that provides not only hockey but a variety of other summer sports.

The Hockey Haven has been good for the area during the years as it has been in operation as the Highlands of Haliburton has received some top notch publicity both in Canada and the United States. Several articles on the camp have been written in magazines both in Canada and the U.S.A. plus many articles in big daily newspapers for coast to coast plus we also received some good publicity for the Highlands on Hockey Night in Canada. It's impossible to buy this kind of advertising.

During this past week the referees school has been in session at the Hockey Haven and at the Haliburton arena. Referees and linesmen from Ontario have been here to receive instruction as from some of the best referees in both the N.H.L. and the W.H.A.

On Wednesday and Thursday of last week the Haliburton Junior Huskies met Bancroft in an exhibition game to give the referees some action in a real game.

Youngsters are back in school

Parades can cause a lot of headaches for the motorist...particularly if you've forgotten the event and get caught in the accompanying traffic jam. It's frustrating waiting for all those marching crowds to pass by, even more so if you have no interest in the event being heralded.

There is one parade held each year, however, in which we all have an interest. It's the Annual Back-to-School Parade. Thousands of children across the province participate. They are excited and eager, rowdy and rambunctious, and some, facing the experience for the first time, tearful and apprehensive. Is it any wonder that the safety rules many of them have learned are forgotten in the excitement of the moment? For the motorist, this sudden youthful pedestrian activity means extra care.

The Ontario Safety League reminds you that the back-to-school parade begins early Tuesday morning, September. Expect excited children on every street - not just in school zones - and expect the unexpected. Remember that adult school crossing guards are now permitted to use stop signs to signal traffic to stop on roads with speed limits of 40 mph or less when directing children across a highway. Where a school bus is stopped on a highway to pick up or deposit children and has its red signal lights flashing, traffic in both directions is required to stop if there is no median strip of barrier. Where there is such a barrier dividing the highway, only traffic travelling in the same direction as the school bus is required to stop.

We're all concerned when it comes to child safety. Drive carefully--don't let an accident rain on our back-to-school parade.

As others see it

When the Canadian Council of Labour calls a DAY STRIKE for October 14th, it is committing an illegal act. True, it is trying to pressure the Government by bluffing. Now that that largely is failing, it may still have to try and carry out its threat.

The issue is not whether labour should have more say in the affairs of this country, I and many more think they should. The issue is whether the C.L.C. has the right to smash the laws that have been duly enacted by the representative of the people and to try to bludgeon the Government into doing what it wants done.

The C.L.C. is not elected by the general public. It represents less than 1/3 of the labour force and has no mandate from our citizens to make our laws. Canada, on the other hand, is a Democracy - a classless society; governed by elected representatives of all the people. Should a Government not do what we want, then we have the right to vote them out - but not to wreck things like a "Banana Republic" would do.

When a minority group defies the Government, tries to smash the law and threaten to strangle business, it is time to call a halt. The C.L.C. has overstepped the mark. It has misjudged the feeling of our people who want to live under the Rule of Law.

The so-called strike, if ever held, will fail. It could cause no good in any event.

Lazy Canadians and lack of funds for research has rendered Canada unable to handle crises according to a Senate science policy committee report.

Energy shortages and disease epidemics are listed as two of many areas Canada will fail to handle in emergency situations because of a downtrend in scientific research the report maintains.

Uncertain research funds are lazy, young people have seriously eroded Canada's scientific and technical base, J. Larking Kerwin, president of the Royal Society of Canada, stated.

Federal freezes on research money has made the future uncertain, leading many young scientists away from a career in the field, he said. He insists that the spirit of hard work has deteriorated in this country and young people are ignoring math and science for easier courses.

To improve the situation the committee recommends that current federal freeze on research funds be lifted; that budgets of federal agencies such as the National Research Council and the Medical Research Council be restored to the 1973 levels, and that additional funds be channelled through universities for areas of special concern to Canada for study purposes and development.

BY JIM BADGLEY

Being an avid fisherman I looked in awe at Bob Davis' pictures of Labrador. Like most though I can only dream of such a trip because usually it involves flying, one of my great fears.

The last time I was on an airplane was a 25 minute flight that started in beautiful sunny weather and ended in a snowstorm. The plane, not being of the larger variety, had the passengers sitting very close to the pilot, close enough in fact that one could hear the pilot talking to the co-pilot.

Not long after we entered the storm, I heard these famous words, spill from the pilots mouth, "I cannot see", nothing to worry about if you are landing at Toronto International or some other large modern facility with radar and excellent tracking equipment, but when your destination is a small airport that the pilot relies on sight to find the runway, it is time to panic.

No problem what-so-ever- though, other than the pilot slightly missed the runway and banking the plane up on its side giving the passengers a full view of the top of the airport.

A much more hair raising story was related to me by an official of the Ontario Lacrosse Association who explained a trip he took into the Ontario's north.

He explained how in one case the pilot fell asleep and took them on tour of their destination.

Half way through the the pilot pointed out to the passengers where Stanley Cup hockey hero, the late Barilko's plane crashed.

I feel encouraged, as most residents of the county should be by the steady pace the tourism industry has kept in the area. No doubt tourism is the lifeblood of the communities in the Highlands and if we had experienced drops like some provincial reports claim who knows what could have happened economically.

The Olympics in Montreal and the American Bicentennial didn't help any areas of Ontario with tourism.

Haliburton seems to deal with a more dedicated group of tourists who will come to enjoy the area rain, shine, olympics or bicentennial. It must mean they are being treated right when they get here because this year they had a wide choice of exciting events elsewhere.

The people directly involved in the tourist business are those that should be commended for the fine work they have done keeping the area alive.

Most tourist oriented businesses have kept up with the times, developing their areas and making improvements on a continuous basis.

One of the biggest surprises I have had since moving to the Highlands is the work done for the tourists and summer residents by the municipal councils.

Everyone is treated fairly when a problem arises whether they are in the area for two months of the year of 12 months. Both Dysart and Anson, Hindon and Minden councils seem very concerned that everyone be treated on an equal basis.

No doubt that this isn't the case in other tourist areas of the province or at least not in all of the areas.

The county fair couldn't have worse weather if they had decided to move it to British Columbia during the rainy season.

All in all though, despite almost insurmountable odds, the fair could be called a success and organizers are looking forward to next year.

Richard Parisotto, explained that it could have been worse, there could have been snow for the Sunday half of the fair. A snowfall wouldn't have surprised very many.

One thing about it, the weather sure gave the fair the appearance of a fall fair.

From the Chamber

by Bob Stinson

This marks the first anniversary that we have putting this column together on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce. On this occasion we would like to take the opportunity to give us a pat on the back and explain just who "we" and represents. You may have noticed that in this column it is always "we" and never "I" but for this column we shall make an exception to that rule.

I am Bob Stinson, and as the manager of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber I am the only full time paid employee of the Chamber. There are a great number of other people who contribute to the success of this Chamber, and they all form part of the group known as "we" when we talk of what the Chamber is doing. When I started here last September it included Marion Arntfield who after devoting many years as a Secretary was invaluable in showing me the ropes. When Marion retired, my wife, Joan filled in until June working both at home and at the office and also contributed her time at Sportsman Shows in Toronto and Harrisburg. Although she is no longer active in the office she of course is still anxious to help when I need her. Lorri and Jackie took over for the summer months and cheerfully directed tourists and dispensed information while keeping the office open until 9:00 every night. Now they have returned to their respective schools and a new part-time secretary has been engaged. Elaine Blakey will now form part of the team that runs the office.

There are also a number of directors on this team led by Dennis Waymouth, the President, who runs Silver Springs Cottages on Elephant Lake. Bill Foote, past president, and the busy editor of the Progress has made a tremendous contribution to the effort. Dennis Casey manages to find time to serve as Vice-President while he and his brother operate Shamrock Shell, Shamrock Drilling, and help run the family's lodge. Bob Bishop Sr. also has many business interests but sets aside time to devote to the Chamber. Ron Barr has cottages and Barr's store to maintain, and Mike Vuksic has two Mike's Milk stores to operate, and they serve as directors. Barbara Bolin, secretary of the School of Fine Arts is a busy girl, and John Hogg of Mr. Fogg's works long hours, but they serve us well. Don Nye runs the Wagon Wheel Motel near Minden and John Teljeur runs Deer Lodge and also devotes many hours to the Chamber. We also have Bob Vick from Gelert, and Fred Baum from Dorset appointed to our board by County Council, and Wynn Bestwick appointed from the Ministry of Industry and Tourism.

Do these sound like busy people to you? You bet they are. They all have precious little time to spare, but they manage to put some aside for YOUR Chamber of Commerce, because they believe in it, as I do. At the Chamber's annual meeting October 6th, we will be looking for more busy people to help on this board. The only reward is the satisfaction of knowing that you are working on behalf of your community, and that you will be referred to in this column over and over again under the general term of "we."

Many other people come forth with assistance when needed, such as Haliburton Marine loaning us their Gestetner to finish the phone book, and Sir Sandford Fleming College facilities to put it together. Wynn Lahay, our County Clerk Treasurer has always been very helpful, as have all our municipalities when called upon.

I, on behalf of the membership, would like to thank all the people that form "we" and on behalf of "we" I would like to thank the membership for their support. Because of all this co-operation the Chamber is growing rapidly in strength "we" and the membership can look forward to a brighter future because of it can accomplish for the community. We look forward to many more happy anniversaries.

Report from Queen's Park

by MPP John Eakins

The results of the Government's appeal against the Divisional Court ruling on the question of hospital closings is expected soon, and I would like to take this opportunity of reviewing developments in this connection.

In November of last year, Eddie Sargent, Liberal MPP (Owen Sound) called for an emergency debate on the proposed closing of Chesley and Districk Memorial Hospital, scheduled for January 1st, 1976. At that time Minister of Health Frank Miller confirmed that 24 hospitals were scheduled to be closed, refusing to disclose details of the government's plans. Moreover, he would not release the list of hospitals, and said "Each one will, in turn, be told in negotiation, if it's being considered. Each one will have the option and opportunity to discuss the merits of closing with me and they will learn it in that order only after I've decided there's some reason to consider the problems with them."

Questioned by Liberal Leader Stuart Smith, the Minister said that availability of alternative facilities would be taken into account, as well as the actual condition of the hospitals. He admitted that development of surplus hospital beds had been permitted in the past, and said "we have changed our over-all guidelines and we are adjusting to them."

The day after the Legislature adjourned for the Christmas recess, the Minister of Health met with representatives of the Ontario Hospital Association. He announced that there would be a 10 per cent limitation on the Health budget increase; a $50 million dollar cut of hospital budgets and possibly 5,000 staff (4 per cent of the total); rationalization of laboratory and provincial psychiatric services; no further nursing home bed approvals or increases in the amount of money spent on research and demonstration model projects. The first closures were also announced: Goderich Psychiatric Hospital, Northeastern Regional Mental Health Centre in Timmins, and four public health labs, located at Kenora, St. Catharines, Woodstock and North Bay. (Anticipated saving from closure of the labs was $400,000). Conversion of the facilities at Timmins and Goderich to mental retardation "resource centres" was also announced at this meeting.

On January 15th, 1976, the Legislature reconvened to end the Toronto teachers' strike and during Question Period the Minister was repeatedly attacked for not consulting affected communities about hospital closings. Again he refused to publish a list of the hospitals concerned.

The Legislature prorogued on January 16th, and actual closings began on February 9th. Each hospital was visited by the Minister and his staff. Closure decisions had clearly been made in advance. As the Minister met with respective hospital boards a press statement announcing the closure was issued in Toronto.

During March and April, thousands of citizens protested hospital closings, staff and bed reductions. Hospital boards and officials met with the Premier, Cabinet and Government representatives to appeal closing and constraints. However, on April 12th, Premier Davis announced that Willett Hospital in Paris, Clinton, Durham and Doctors' Hospital in Toronto would all cease to operate as acute facilities offering X-ray, lab, minor surgery and doctors' offices. Willett would continue to provide chronic care at its present level pending results of a local study. At that time, the Government had, apparently, no idea what impact its new decision would have on the number of jobs or dollar saving involved.

On April 13th it was made clear that contrary to commitments made to various hospitals, many were not given advance warning of the Government's decision to close them down. Ministry of Health letters to Clinton and Durham simply stated: "Make sure your staff receive terminative notices. You must stop. Your hospital must close". In addition these letters stated that "Ministry of Health staff are available at your request to assist you in developing health care services in your community using existing buildings to some extent."

Subsequently - on April 13th - a Divisional Court ruled that the Province had no legal authority to close hospitals merely to cut costs. The Court found that the Public Hospitals Act was regulatory in nature and was never intended to be used to close hospitals for budgetary reasons. The Government decided to appeal this ruling and hospitals due to close were permitted to continue to function on a six-month reprieve pending outcome of the appeal.

On July 14th, the Legislature reconvened to pass legislation approving the anti-inflation agreement with Ottawa. The Minister of Health announced an Ontario Council of Health study of the hospital bed situation in Metro Toronto, which would have a bearing on the fate of Doctors' Hospital. Questions were raised as to why other hospitals which had been ordered closed could not have the benefit of similar studies and why such studies had not been commissioned prior to the original closure decisions.

We now await the results of the Government's appeal against the Divisional Court ruling. See you next week.

The Haliburton Huskies got their first taste of action last week and both the local club and Bancroft weren't skating all that bad.

The Huskies seem to have a hard hitting club that isn't afraid to throw the weight around.

Bill Davis, who handled the coaching chores for the first game, said he was a little surprised at how the team skated considering the time of year. Bill said the team seemed to progress as the game went on, perhaps getting their skating legs.

The veterans are leading the way for team Canada, at least they did last week. Bobby Hull and Phil Esposito are playing as fine a hockey as they ever have for many years, if not better.

Bobby Orr is back and the National Hockey League had better watch out. In the Finnish game, Orr controlled the play in his old fashion at the blueline. I noticed he wasn't rushing as much as he used to but the head is still there and his plays are still the best in the world.

Now is the time of year for all local golfers to rejoice, most of the tourists have left for the year which has helped cut the crowds at the golf courses.

I was out at one of the local courses last week late in the afternoon, played a comfortable nine holes and could have played another nine with the amount of light available.

This time of year the courses always seem to be in better condition, the grass is usually at its best and the greens just aren't getting the heavy traffic.

It isn't difficult to get in nine holes in the evening after work, with so few people out on the course. You also get the benefit of cooler weather which makes it that much more comfortable to play.

One thing that you likely will find this time of year is that it is little harder to bounce a shot into the greens. The ball seems to bight up a little better and you probably will find it a little easier to score if you play it for the stick.

The two Rotary Clubs in the area will do battle on the fairways Sept. 20 at Blairhampton Golf Club. I understand that the competition turns out to be a friendly match with much more fun than work.

Good old Russ Jackson sure lost a lot of popularity in the past few weeks. The Argos started the season with a rush and now seem to be their usual dud.

Everyone was happy with Mr. Jackson early in the season but even more impressed with the team. Now that the team isn't doing so well some are calling for Jackson's firing because as they say the team is just loaded with talent but the coach can't handle it.

When the Argos upset Montreal a few weeks ago the Argos looked like a team to beat and everything was fine at the remodelled CNE stadium, now the whole world is caving in when it looks like the team couldn't beat the Bramalea Sattelites. Anyway, Ol' Russ has a long contract and I for one am convinced that he will be able to make the Argos into a football team.

The Huskies tied the game three minutes later when Jay Wootton connected from Mike Scheffee.

Bancroft took the count to 5-4 at 14:43 when Dean Keller scored from Alan Linton and Roger Keller.

The Jets ran the count to 6-4 when Linton scored from

MNR assistance for woodlots

For a number of years now the Ministry of Natural Resources has provided assistance to woodlot owners in improving and harvesting trees from their wood lots.

have been signed for improvement work under the terms of the Woodlands Improvement Act. In polewood stands where trees are too closely spaced some are removed by means of a notch girdle. Usually this entails cutting of a narrow band which completely encircles the trunk of the tree. Severe of the bark and outer layers of sapwood using this method will kill the tree over a period of time. This method of thinning has been used quite extensively in the past where there hasn't been a market for this type of product. However as oil and gas heating products continue to climb in price this situation is gradually changing.

Some woodlot owners are installing combination wood-oil units in their homes and utilizing material from their own woodlots. Thinnings surplus to their own needs are being sold by the face cord (1/2 of a standard cord).

Of course some species are more valuable than others depending on such factors as burning and coaling qualities, ease of burning, emission of sparks and fragrance.

A fire should burn evenly, produce few sparks and provide a good bed of coals which will radiate heat into the room long after the active flames have died down.

Reduced waterflow for Burnt, Gull

During the week of August 27th - September 3rd, the flows from the Gull River Watershed were reduced from 850 c.f.s. to about 600 c.f.s. The flows from the lakes on the Burnt River Watershed were reduced but flows in the Burnt River decreased only slightly due to the rains on the watershed.

No changes were made to the flows on the Eels Creek and Jack's Creek Watersheds, but substantial reductions were made on the Mississauga River Watershed. The storage in the Reservoirs was 63% on August 31st, about 13% more than at the same time last year.

The Kawartha Lakes started the week generally above their maximum navigation levels due to the onset of cool, wet weather. The flow from the Reservoirs was reduced and the flow down the Otonabee River was increased from near minimum to about 1,300 c.f.s., bringing the Kawarthas down close to their navigation ranges by week-end.

Annual corn roast

The Sugar Bush Cottager's Assoc. of lower Kashagawigamog Lake held their "Annual Corn & Weiner Roast Hoe-down" at Mr. & Mrs. Bert Harrison's farm home Aug 21 with approximately 125 attending, with some wearing the requested "Hard Time Look" for which prizes were given.

The "Davies Quartette" of Haliburton were enjoyed with their guitars & spoons and led the sing-song which preceded serving delicious corn, hot-dogs, watermelon and toasted marshmallows. Following this Dave Grant, a cottager, supplied the music and calling for square dancing in the attractively lighted barn - All agreed to "much appreciation to the Harrison's for providing such ideal atmosphere for the annual event again this year.

Stompin' Tom Connors stomped his way into the hearts of area residents last Friday night at the Minden Arena. Connors and his group entertained the near capacity crowd with his songs about rural Canada.

Ma Bell saves energy

Bell Canada, which saved over $1 million in energy costs last year, received an energy conservation award from Ontario Energy Minister Dennis Timbrell.

Bell achieved the saving by implementing more effective controls over minimum and maximum temperatures in their buildings in Ontario, and by introducing procedures to reduce gasoline consumption by its fleet of vehicles.

"This award belongs to the Bell employees. Such outstanding results could have been achieved only with their full support of the energy conservation program", Mr. Timbrell said.

Mr. Timbrell pointed out that the energy saved by Bell Canada in their buildings was equivalent to the amount of energy necessary to heat about 2,000 homes for one year. Fuel savings in their automobiles were in excess of 800,000 gallons.

"This saving should encourage employees to practice energy conservation at home as well as at work", he added.

The energy conservation award was presented to Bell's Executive Vice-President for Ontario, Gordon E.

Inns, in recognition of the company's participation in Ontario's Energy Management Program which is attempting to reduce the rate of growth in energy consumption in the Province.

"I hope Bell's example of full corporate commitment to proper energy management will be emulated by all Ontario industries", Mr. Timbrell said.

News from Extendicare

by Charles Plewman

Mrs. J. Kernohan passed away on Monday, August 23rd. Our deepest sympathy goes to Mrs. Edna Kernohan who resides here.

Bingo has become quite popular on Tuesday the 24th it was no exception.

On Tuesday, the Plewman family presented Kilcoo Camp with an oil painting of their father, C.F. Plewman. John Latimer, the Director, in accepting the gift spoke of Mr. Plewman as the founder of the camp and about his interest and influence during the years. Mr. Plewman used the occasion to say "Good-bye", after 46 consecutive years in which he had directed 24 camps and was on hand for the rest.

Wednesday the 25th was Craft Day and the group was exceedingly busy getting ready for our big "Hawaiian Day" being held on September 17th.

On Friday we held a birthday party and those who had recent birthdays were Ethel Robinson, Edna Kernohan, Vera Griffin, Rosina Dukes, Olive Armstrong, Shirley Frost, Lucy Woodcock, George Young, and Elgin Douglas. The party was a hilarious affair from start to finish. Mr. Carl Bohne aroused everybody with his vigorous piano selections and was accompanied on the harmonica by Charles Plewman.

Life goes on at Extendicare, sickness and handicaps abound, but the human spirit does its best to cope with them. The humorous and nice things of life are accentuated and the troublesome ones partially eliminated. The nurses continue to do a good job and the meals are getting better.

Friday, 27th August, the Rev. Don Nicholson of the United Church, led our devotional period.

A NEW DEAL FOR OLDSTERS

Some years ago someone got across the idea that when you reach 50 years of age you stopped playing. Playing was for the youngsters. The general attitude was at 50 or 60 about all you could do was wait for the undertaker to come and get you. Turner, the artist, did not help matters by his well-known painting of his mother dressed in black and rocking away in the rocking chair.

Of recent years we have awakened to the fact that life at 50 or 60 can be happy and rewarding. The problems are that too often the opportunity for good fellowship and worthwhile activities is not available. The coming of Extendicare has awakened a greater interest on the part of our citizenry in the oldsters-young people have far more facilities for playing and for good fellowship.

Realizing this lack of opportunity, it is only natural that the "Happy Gang", made up of residents of Extendicare, has been working with the Federal Government since last May with a plan to turn their present land into a lovely park for Seniors. The park would be equipped with all kinds of recreational facilities suitable for older persons. Shuffleboard-darts-quoits-vegetable plots-handicraft-contract bridge and euchre-barbeques, which families could use.

Why not telephone Mrs. Lewis and arrange a time for a bridge game now. Meanwhile we can stand some bridge tables, chairs and cards, so if you have some to spare this is just the place that we can put them to use.

When it can be arranged, a drop-in centre centrally located, will be set up by a strong Haliburton committee. Unfortunately, this will take some time to accomplish.

In the meantime, Extendicare heartily invites all citizens of 60 and over to use our quarters as a drop-in centre for older folk. Bridge and Euchre and probable on some occasions, a joint meeting with the residents.

When the plans become operative, transportation will be arranged so that you can leave about 2:00 p.m. and return around 4:15 p.m.

On Friday, September 3rd, Mr. James Cooper of the Gideons gave a practical talk at our Devotional Period.

Iroquoian Indians depicted on stamps

Postmaster General Bryce Mackasey announced the issue of four 10-cent stamps featuring the Iroquoian Indians. These are the last stamps in a series on Canadian Indian culture depicting artifacts, way of life, dress, and symbolism.

The new stamps will be launched officially on September 17 at Brantford, Ontario.

A total of 36 million stamps are to be printed by Ashton-Potter Limited of Toronto. The artifacts and way of life stamps will be printed se-tenant as will the dress and symbolism stamps.

The artifacts stamp includes photographs by Ray Webber of a corn husk mask, a turtle shell rattle, a false face mask, an earthenware vessel, and a ball club, which were provided by the Royal Ontario Museum and the National Museums of Canada.

The way of life stamp is from a painting of an Iroquoian encampment by George Heriot. The dress and symbolism stamps depict a ceremonial costume from a drawing by Lewis Parker, and an Iroquoian thunderbird interpreted by Georges Beupre.

In making his announcement, Mr. Mackasey said, "The Post Office is very proud of this series and we hope it will provide non-native Canadians and people throughout the world with a better understanding of the great contributions Canadian Indians have made to the mosaic of Canadian culture."

Stamps feature artifacts, way of life and dress

The four 10-cent Iroquoian Indian stamps feature artifacts way of life, dress and symbolism.

The artifacts were photographed by Webber; the way of life stamp was produced from a painting by George Heriot; the ceremonial dress was sketched by Lewis Parker; and the graphic symbolism stamp was designed by Georges Beupre, who did the typography for the entire Indian series.

The Artifacts/Way of Life stamps measure 36 by 30 mm in a horizontal format; the Dress/Symbolism stamps measure 24 by 40 mm in a vertical format. Both sets will have 13 perforations.

A total of 18 million of the Artifacts/Way of Life stamps will be printed se-tenant in six-colour lithography, and 18 million Dress/Symbolism stamps will be printed se-tenant in six-colour lithography plus embossing.

Marginal inscriptions, including the designers' names, appear of the four corners of each pane of fifty stamps available from the Philatelic Service. The total production of these stamps bears the general tagging and will not be available in any other form.

Mint stamps are available to collectors at philatelic counters in selected post offices across Canada, as well as by mail order through the Philatelic Service, Canada Post Office, OTTAWA, Ontario K1A 0B1.

Frank MacDougall pioneered park

from the Raven

Editor's note: This article is reprinted from the Algonquin Park Raven, published by the Ministry of Natural Resources.

If you are a regular visitor to Algonquin you have probably already noticed new green, white and blue signs along the highway showing a stylized canoeist and the words "Frank MacDougall Parkway". You may also know that on August 21 a special ribbon-cutting ceremony was held at the West Gate to honour the late Mr. MacDougall and to name the Parkway (that part of Highway 60 lying in Algonquin) in his memory. What you may not know is who Frank MacDougall was or why his memory should be so honoured, and we therefore offer the following brief highlights of his career.

Mr. MacDougall was superintendent of Algonquin from 1931 to 1941 which was a time that saw more important developments in the Park than any other comparable period. Chief among these was Frank's personal introduction of the plane to Park management. Patrolling Algonquin in an open cock-pit biplane, our first lying superintendent almost single-handedly turned the tide in the battles against poachers in the winter and fires in the summer.

The era of modern recreation in Algonquin also began in this period with the opening of the highway now named in his honour in 1936, and Mr. MacDougall was the first to see the coming conflict between loggers and canoeists. He did much to alleviate this problem by reserving shorelines and other special areas from logging. These reservations were a revolutionary concept back in the 1930's but they are the direct forerunner of the zones established in the 1974 Algonquin Master Plan and which appear on this year's new canoe route map. MacDougall also foresaw the greatly increased pressure on Park fisheries that came with the opening of the new highway, and it was his efforts which led to the establishment of what we now know as "the fish lab" on Lake Opinong - the centre for brook and lake trout research in Canada.

ment of Lands and Forests (the forerunner of today's Ministry of Natural Resources). He held this post for 25 years, a record for Ontario deputy ministers, during which he directed the development of many services we now take for granted. The most important of these was the widespread, efficient use of aircraft in fighting forest fires, an area in which Ontario is an acknowledged world leader.

In recognition of this accomplishment (and other contributions such as being a major influence in the design of the Dehavilland Beaver aircraft), Mr. MacDougall was elected to the Canadian Aviation Hall of Fame in 1974.

Frank retired in 1966 but continued to fly for another eight years. He died on June 27, 1975 at the age of 79.
